How Assessment ts Learning

Learning-oriented Assessment: in Action

David Carless
Gordon Joughin
Ngar-Fun Liu
and Associates

HOCHSCHULE
LIECHTENSTEIN
Bibliothek

tu
HONG KONG UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

Foreword by David Boud ix

Acknowledgements xi

Chapter 1 Improving Assessment, Improving Learning 1

Chapter 2 A Conceptual Framework for Learning-oriented Assessment 7

Chapter 3 Assessment Practices That Promote Learning 17

RESEARCHING

1. Research paper assignments that prevent plagiarism 22
Deirdre Mary SMYTHE

2. Assessing research and writing: An integrated cycle of tasks and feedback 25
Paul STABLES

3. Assessing field-based group inquiry: Feedback and reflection 29
Joe Tin-yau LO

4. Critical incident analysis for assessment 32
Jean MORRISSEY

HIGHER-ORDER THINKING -

5. Using follow-up questions in written assignments 36
Rocky Yuk Keung FAN

6. Same-day feedback and analysis of assessed coursework 39
Rick GLOFCHESKI

1. Quiz-in and quiz-out: A variation of the 'minute paper' 43
Vicky Kwan Lan TSANG

8. Mini-viva for assignment feedback and discussion 46
David CARLESS
9. Asking a question': A time-saving assessment tool 49
Lilian L. P. VRJJMOED

COMMUNICATING USING TECHNOLOGY

10. Using online processes to enhance assessment and learning 52
Eliza K. O. AU
11. Peer assessment using electronic reflective journals 56
Ada Wai Wing MA and Eugenia Mee Wah NG
12. Providing immediate feedback through a 'personal response system' 60
Harrison TSE
13. An electronic feedback bank 62
Pamela LEUNG

COMMUNICATING ORALLY OR IN WRITING

14. Engaging students in critical discussion of assignments 65
CHEUNG Siu Kau
15. Providing and receiving feedback on writing tasks 68
Emily Po Sheung YAN and Vivian Yuk Yi LI
16. Focused feedback and reflections to inform learning 73
Wendy Y. K. LAM
17. Language assessment using an Internet-based discussion board 76
David ROSSITER and Gibson LAM

WORKING IN TEAMS

18. Project-based assessment: Designing a web site 79
Mike KEPPELL and David CARLESS
19. Assessing interpersonal effectiveness in group tutorials 82
Philip S. L. BEH
20. Identifying students' misconceptions through peer-assessed presentations 85
Doris Pui Wah CHENG
21. Assessing creative team work using ongoing peer critique 88
Ada Wai Wing MA

EVALUATING PEERS

22. Peer assessment of group projects 92
Winnie CHENG and Martin WARREN
23. Peer assessment of design posters 97
Ken VOLK
24. Training students to peer and self-evaluate their writing 100
Nigel BRUCE
25. Technology-facilitated peer assessment of music creation 105
Rita Lai Chi YIP

LEARNING AUTONOMOUSLY

26. 'Learning-through-assessment': Assessment tasks that challenge more accomplished students 108
CHAN Hau Ping and MOK Yan Fung

27. Using portfolio assessment to promote autonomous learning 112
MAK Wai Ho .

28. Exemplars and assessing independent learning 115
Ngar-Fun LIU

29. Formative assessment of projects in progress 120
Louisa LAM

30. Automated feedback on case studies 123
Shekhar KUMTA **"

EVALUATING ONESELF

31. Ungraded tasks leading to summative assignments 125
LIU Pui Lee

32. Helping students diagnose and track error patterns in written work 129
Icy LEE

33. Engagement with assessment criteria for self-assessment 133
David CARLESS

34. Helping students to self-assess their learning needs 137
LUNG Ching Leung and Magdalena Mo Ching MOK

PROCESSING AND ACTING ON FEEDBACK

35. Ensuring^that students process and act on feedback 141
Learning to Learn Course Team

36. Tutorial review of draft assignments: Dialogue and reflection 144
Rita BERRY

37. Staged assessment and feedback 148
Frankie Yuen Yee YU

38. Cycles of feedback in an assessment task 150
Ina SIU

39. Using a professional development progress map to assess field experience 153"
Sylvia Yee Fan TANG

Chapter 4 The Way Forward 159

Appendix: Useful Resources 169

References 177