Employee Surveys in Management

Theories, Tools, and Practical Applications

Ingwer Borg
with
Paul M. Mastrangelo

HOCHSCHULE LIECHTENSTEIN
Bibliothek

HOGREFE

Content

Preface ..... xv

1 Characteristics and Types of Employee Surveys 1
1.1 Current Usage of Employee Surveys in Industry 1
1.2 Some Typical Cases of Employee Surveys 3
1.3 General Characteristics of Employee Surveys 5
1.4 The Purposes of Employee Surveys 6
1.5 Some Basic Types of Employee Survey 8
Employee Polls 8
Benchmarking Employee Surveys 9
Climate Employee Surveys With Feedback 11
Unfreeze-and-Involve Management Programs 12
Systemic Employee Surveys 13
Employee Surveys for Measurement and Change 15
1.6 On the Evolution of Employee Survey Types 17
1.7 Potentials and Risks of an Employee Survey 19
1.8 Employee Surveys and Nafve Models of the Employee 21
Five Models about the Employee 21
The Five Employee Models and their Corresponding Employee Surveys 23
Employee Models and Employee Surveys 25

2 Positioning an Employee Survey 27
2.1 Positioning the Employee Survey 27
Total Package Designs 27
Stakeholders, Explicit Goals, and Hidden Agendas 30
2.2 The Context of an ES 31
Project Antecedents and Apparent Needs 31
Introducing General Information about Employee Surveys 33
Considering the Benefits of an ES 35
• First Thoughts on the Costs of an Employee Survey 37
Readiness of an Organization for an ES 38
Finding the Right Time to Administer the ES 41
2.3 • Positioning the Employee Survey through Top Management 43
Goals 44
Risks and Dealing with Risks 44
Defining Minimal Requirements for Managers and Non-Managers 45
Top Management's Own Public Commitment 46
2.4 Further Facets of Positioning an ES 47
Content Considerations 47
Dissemination of ES Results 49
Comparing Employee Survey Results across Organizational Units 49
2.5 Ethical and Legal Use of Individual Employee Data 51
Anonymity 52
Confidentiality 55
Allowing for Demographic Item Non-Response 55
Data Protection 56
Inadmissible Questions 57

2.6 Census and Sample Surveys ... 5
Statistical Considerations ... 5
Cost Considerations ... 5
Psychological Considerations ... 5
Usability for Organizational Decision Making ... 6

3 Coordinating and Planning the ES Project ... 6
3.1 Architecture ... 6
Architecture of the Coordination Team ... 6
Tasks of ES Coordinators ... 6
Recruitment and Selection of ES Coordinators ... 6
ES Coordinators and ES Consultants ... 6
Time Consumed by Coordinators in an ES Project ... 6
3.2 ES Project Plan ... 6
The ES Master Plan ... 6
Differentiating Roles in the ES Project ... 6
Phases, Activities, and Roles of an ES Project ... 7

4 Content of Questionnaire ... 7
4.1 Approaches for Defining the Content of an ES ... 7
Existing Questionnaires and Instruments ... 7
Interviewing Senior Leaders to Create Survey Content ... 7
An ACE Hierarchy to Guide Questionnaire Construction ... 8
Using ACE to Construct Indices ... 8
From ACE to RACER ... 8
The Performance-Satisfaction Motor ... 8
Using Company Scorecards to Identify Measurement Fields ... 8
The Various Functions of ES Items ... 8
4.2 Standard ES Questions: The Individual Employee's Perspective ... 9
4.3 Extending Standard ES Topics: Performance and Strategy ... 9
4.4 Extensions II: Further Psychojogical Topics ... 9
4.5 Topics Not Suited for an ES ... 10
4.6 Facets of ES Items ... 10
4.7 Importance as a Judgment Criterion ... 10
4.8 Typical Item Compilations ... 10
4.9 Demographic Items ... 10

5 Item and Questionnaire Design ... 11
5.1 Closed Items with Rating Scales ... 10
Number of Categories in a Likert Response Scale ... 11
The Middle Category of a Likert Response Scale ... 11
Using "Don't Know" Categories and no Middle Categories ... 11
Numerical Labels for the Categories of the Response Scale ... 11
5.2 Response Criteria in Items ... 11
5.3 On the Psychology of Answering Survey Items ... 11
5.4 Items with Qualitative Response Scales ... 11
5.5 Comments ... 11
5.6 Open-Ended Questions with a Focus ... 11
5.7 Formulating ES Items ... 11
5.8 Scales and Single Items ... 11

5.9 Items in Different Languages' 133
Back-Translations 133
Further Criteria for Questionnaire Translations 134
The TRAPD Approach 134
5.10 Collecting Demographic Information 135
5.11 The Structure of the Questionnaire 136
Reasons for a Questionnaire Structured by Content 137
Criteria for Sorting Items 138
5.12 Layout of Questionnaire 139
Cover Page and Introduction 139
Design and Layout of Demographic Items 140
Layout of the Blocks of Content Items 141
Alternative Layouts of ES Questionnaires 141
Total Design Method 146
5.13 Prognosis Questionnaires 146"
5.14 Electronic Questionnaires 148

Processes of Questionnaire Development 153
6.1 Developing an Early Version of the Questionnaire 153
6.2 The ES Project Team's Role in Questionnaire Development 155
Coordinating Language Adaptation and Translations 155
Coordinating the Development of Group-Specific Items 156
Coordinating the Development of Demographic Items 158
6.3 Involving Stakeholders into Questionnaire Development 160
Involving Rank-And-File Employees 161
Involving the Organization's Executive Board 161
Involving the Works Council 162
Involving Middle Management and ES Advisory Boards 163
6.4 Pre-Testing and Pilot-Testing the Questionnaire 163
A Simple Pre-Testing Approach for Employee Surveys 164
Cognitive Pre-Testing 165
How Many Pre-Tests? 166
Pilot-Testing the Questionnaire 167

Sampling 169
7.1 The Population 169
7.2 Non-Random Samples 170
Convenience Samples 170
Typical Cases, Extreme Cases, Experts 171
Cut-Off Samples 171
Snow-Balling 171
Quota Sampling 172
7.3 Random Samples 173
Simple Random Samples 174
Systematic Random Sampling 174
Stratified Random Samples 174
Cluster Samples 176
Multi-Stage Sampling 176
7.4 Sampling Errors" 177
Sampling Errors in Samples of Different Size 177
Sampling in Small Populations 179

Sampling Errors for Means and Other Statistics ... 17'
Sampling Errors under Different Sampling Methods ... 18'
7.5 Sample Size ... 181
7.6 Response Rates and Nonresponse ... 18i
Nonresponse Bias ... 18
Dealing with Nonresponse ... 18
Item Nonresponse ... 18
7.7 Sample Construction in Practice ... 18'

Information Campaign Before the Survey ... 19
8.1 Phases and Steps of an ES Information Campaign ... 19
8.2 Activities in Phase 1 of the Information Campaign ... 19:
Informing Employees About the Survey ... 19
Motivating to Participate ... 19
Informing About Survey Administration ... 19
Bridging the Time of "No Action" After the Survey ... 19
8.3 Planning the Information Campaign ... 20
8.3 Style of the Information Campaign ... 20
8.4 Typical Questions and Answers ... 20

Data Collection ... 20
9.1 Survey Administration and Survey Logistics ... 20
9.2 Data Collection in Group Sessions ... 20
The Polling Station Method ... 2C
Organizing a Polling Station Setting ... 21
Polling Station Data Collection and Other Group Sessions ... 21
Special Participation Requests for Unavailable Employees ... 21
Monitoring Response Rates and Using Reminders ... 21
9.3 Data Collection by Postal Mail ... 21
Monitoring Response Rates and Using Reminders ... 21
9.4 Online Data Collection ... 22
General Advantages of Online Surveys ... 2\
Challenges of Online Employee Surveys ... 2^
Online Data Collection and Anonymity ... 2;
Monitoring Response Rates and Using Reminders ... 2;
Combining Online and Traditional Methods of Data Collection ... 2;
9.5 Alternative Methods of Data Collection ... 22
9.6 Summary Comparison of Data Collection Methods ... 22
9.7 Measures to Increase Response Rates ... 22
What Response Rates can be Considered High Response Rates? ... 2',
Persuasive Positioning ... 2',
Reducing Anonymity and Confidentiality Concerns ... 2.
Transparency and Visibility ... 2.
Incentives ... 2.
Monitoring Response Rates and Reminders ... 2\
Questionnaire Design and Personal Invitation Letter ... 2
9.8 Data Entry and Data Coding ... T:
9.9 Data Cleaning ... 2:

10 Standard Data Analysis 241
10.1 Elementary Analysis of ES Data 241
Survey Results for Single Items 241
Comparisons of the Focal Group with Other Organizational Units 245
Placing Absolute Scores in the Context of Several Standards 246
Items, Indices, and Indicators 248
Using Interrelationships among Items to Determine Importance 251
10.2 Standard ES Reports 252
10.3 Focal Reports 253
The General Introduction of a Focal Report 253
Turning to the Focal Group 255
Tables of the Focal Report 256
Alternative Ways to Organize the Items in a Focal Report 257
Reporting Demographics in a Focal Report 258
Appendices of a Focal Report 259
10.4 Cross-Comparison Reports 259
Cross-Comparison Tables 260
Who Should Get Cross-Comparisons? 261
10.5 Prognoses Reports 262
10.6 Standard Reporting of Answers to Open Questions 263
10.7 First-Results Reports for Employees 265
10.9 How to Organize Report Ordering 266
Specifying Selection Rules 266
Automated Report Ordering 268

11 Designing Follow-Up Processes 271
11.1 Basic Components of the Follow-Up Processes 271
Actions and Busy Work 271
Monday Morning Actions: Starting Small 272
Avoiding Unnecessary New Initiatives or New Goals 273
Types of Responses to ES Results 274
11.2 Approaches to Designing Follow-Up Processes 275
The Top-Down Approach 275
The Bottom-Up Approach 277
The Task-Force Approach 279
The Big-Bang Approach 280
Soft Varieties of the Top-Down Approach 280
11.3 Communicating the Organization's Official Response to ES Results 282
11.4 Creating Dialogue as a Response to Survey Results 284
11.5 Cultivating Individual Responses to Survey Results 286
11.6 The 7+7 Approach for Rolling-Out the Follow-Up Processes 289
11.7 Response Sequences for Individual Managers 291
11.8 Criteria for Planning and Evaluating Follow-Up Processes 292

12 Nonstandard Data Analysis 295
12.1 Interpreting ES Results 295
12.2 Experience-Based Hypotheses and ES Results 297
12.3 Benchmarking 298
Types of Benchmarks* 298
Benchmarking Single Items and Indices 300

On the Validity of Benchmarks 30(
Benchmarks from Different Countries 30
Benchmarking Against Industry and Job'Norms 30:
Benchmarking by Cross-Comparisons within the Organization 30'
Upward and Backward Benchmarking 30;
Benchmarking Against Prognoses 30(
Benchmarking Correlations and Patterns 30(
12.4 Using Theory to Interpret ES Data 30\
12.5 Deep Statistical Analyses 31(
The Psychological Map of the Respondents 31(
Dependent Variables within MDS 3 L
External Dependent Variables and Linkage Research 3L
Relating Internal Dependent Variables to Demographic Information 31 (
Interpretations and the "More is better" Fallacy 31'
12.6 Business-Oriented Frameworks for ES Data Interpretation 315
ES Data and the Balanced Scorecard 311
SWOT Analysis 31'
12.7 Triangulation and Other Views onto the Data 32

13 Presenting Survey Results to Management 32:
13.1 Structuring an ES Presentation 32:
Introduction of an ES Presentation 32:
Facets/Dimensions of the Organization Climate 32
The Performance-Satisfaction Network: Core and Extension 32
A Simpler Alternative: ACE or RACER Structuring 32
Further Break-Downs of the Statistics 32
Empirical Structure of Items 32
Special Topics 32
Business Perspectives 32
Monday Morning Action Platforms 33
Summary and Recommendations 33
Still Other Forms of Structuring an ES Presentation 33
13.2 The ES Presentation Process 33:
Aligning the Final Presentation with Key Managers 33
Global Management Decisions as Input to the Follow-Up Processes 33
Overcoming Typical Psychological Barriers 33
13.3 Adding Punch to the Presentation 33i
Positioning the Presentation in the Context of the Follow-Up Processes 33
Avoid Wasting Time on Side Issues 33
Avoid Over-Interpretation 33
13.4 Motivating Managers to Act 33
Motivating Managers to Get Involved 33
Building Platforms for Immediate Actions 34

14 Employee Survey Workshops 34
14.1 Foundations of ES Workshops 34
The Basic Goals of an ES Workshop 34
Feedback, Djscussion, and Explanations 34
Proposals for Solutions 34
Alignment 34
14.2 Typical Design of an ES Workshop 34
Phase I: Introduction 34

Phase II: Discussing and Structuring the Results 350
Phase III: Action Fields and Ideal Scenarios 354
Phase IV: Outlook on Next Steps 356
Phase V: Wrapping Things up After the Workshop 356
14.3 The Participants of an ES Workshop 357
14.4 The Facilitator of an ES Workshop 357
14.5 Organizing and Preparing an ES Workshop 359
Participants, Time, Location, and Invitation 360
Room 360
Materials 360
Preparing an ES Workshop: the ES Coordinator's Role 361
A Facilitator's Personal Preparation for the ES Workshop 362
14.6 Discussing ES Results 363
Workshop Activities for a Particular Item Block 364
An Illustrative Item Block 364
Another Illustration with Items on the Supervisor 366
14.7 Tips and Hints for Facilitating an ES Workshops 368
Timing 368
Role and Behavior of the Facilitator 369
Presenting the Survey Results 370
Discussing the ES Results 370
Behavior of the Participants in the Discussions 372
Discussing the Items on the Direct Supervisor 373
Brainstorming on the Fields of Action 374
Behavior of Managersjn ES Workshops 375
Giving Feedback to the Supervisor after the ES Workshop 375
14.8 Variants of the Traditional ES Workshop 376
ES Workshops with Managers Only 376
ES Workshops,under Tight Time Constraints 377
14.9 Alternatives of the Traditional ES Workshop 378
14.10 Planning Batteries of ES Workshops 382
14.9 Additional Follow-Up Work on ES Workshop Results 383
Additional Statistical Analysis of the Survey Data 383
Consulting Additional Theory in the Literature 384
Understanding Opportunities 384
Cause-And-Effect Analyses for Problem Areas 384
Testing the Strategic Value of Possible Areas of Action 385
Summarizing how Workshop Participants Interrelate the Topics 386

15 Action Management 389
15.1 Developing Ideas for Actions 389
15.2 Organizing Actions 392
Level of Action 392
Roles in Action Management 393
Selecting Action Directors and Action Team Members 393
Action Management vs. Line Management 394
The Action Mission Contract 395
Defining the Action Director's Action Space 396
When to Begin Action Planning 397
15.3 Foundations of Action Planning 398
Planning Actions Hierarchically 398
The Timeline of an Action 399

15.4 Simple Action Planning Tools 395
"W" Action Forms 40(
"W" Action Forms with Status Indicators 40(
15.5 Planning Complex Actions 401
Planning Milestones 40
Planning Activities 40!
15.6 Controlling Action Implementation 40^
Principles of Action Controlling 40:
Reporting 40(
Simple Reporting Forms 40(
Reporting in Complex Actions 40i
Adjusting an Action Plan 40'
Online Action Planning Tools 40'
15.7 Soft Factors in Action Management 40!
Selecting the Right People 4H
Delegating Actions Away 41
Remaining Open to Clarify the Action's Goals and Conditions 41
Accepting and Endorsing the Action Plan 41
Insisting on Discipline 41
Leading Action Team Members 41
Planning Realistically 41
Controlling Action Progress Constructively 41
Thinking About the Politics of the Action 41
Turning the Action Team into a Team 41
Keeping Technical Gimmickry Minimal 41
Showing Commitment to the Action and its Tasks 41

16 Information Campaign after the Survey 41:
16.1 Information on Results and Management's Responses 41
16.2 Information on Actions 41
16.3 Planning and Organizing the Information Campaign 41
Architecture and Roles 41
Publications and Time Line 42
Communication Politics 42
16.4 Communication as Part of Planned Change Management 42
Creating Perceptions of what most People are Doing 42
Communicating what Employees are Ready to Hear 42

17 Evaluating Employee Survey Projects 42
17.1 Project Evaluation and Learning 42
17.2 Evaluating ES Projects 42
Positioning the Evaluation of an ES Project 41
Evaluation Criteria 42
Objective Business Criteria 42
Finding the Right Time for Evaluations 4;
17.3. Evaluation Methods 43
Analyzing the Quality of the Survey Data 4:
Studying Documentation Materials 4:
Collecting Observations on the ES Project 4-'.
Interviews to Evaluate the ES Project's Results and Processes 4'.
Surveys to Evaluate the ES Project's Results and Processes 4'.

17.4 The Practice of ES Evaluations 439
Sample 439
Organization 440
Items and Survey Design 441
Data Analysis and Interpretation 443

References 447

Author Index 463

Subject Index 469