

Careers In and Out of Organizations

Contents

Introduction to the Series	ix
Preface	xi
Acknowledgments	xiv
Part I: Contemporary Careers	1
1. The Study of Careers	3
The Changing Context of Careers	3
Why Study Careers?	8
What Is a Career?	8
A Working Definition of Career	10
Why Are Careers Important?	12
Conclusion	16
2. The Protean Career Contract	17
The Nature of a Psychological Contract	18
The Nature of the New Contract	22
Stages of Adaptation: Three Types of Companies	28
Continuous Learning via Psychological Success	34
Implications for Organizational Career Management	35

Questions for Further Research	44
Conclusion	45
Part II: Elements of the Career	47
3. Career Choice and Decision Making	49
Eras of Career Research	50
Matching People and Occupations	51
Process Models: How Are Career Choices Made?	66
How People Choose Organizations	76
Conclusion	87
4. Life, Career* and Learning Stages	89
Are Career and Life Stages Still Relevant Today?	90
Life Stages	91
Schein's Model of the Organizational Career	104
The Early Career Years: Becoming Established	107
Midlife and Midcareer: Maintenance and Reexamination	111
A New Stage Mode! for the Middle and Later Career Years and Beyond:
Learning Cycles	116
Later Career and Adjustment Into Retirement	120
Summary of Developmental Needs in Early, Middle, and Late Career	122
Research Issues	124
Conclusion	127
5. Predicting Career Effectiveness: Performance	131
What Is Career Effectiveness?	131
Understanding How the Process of the Career Affects Performance	134
Research Issues	166
Conclusion	168
6. The Protean Career Identity and Attitudes	169
Career Identity	170
Career Attitudes	190
Conclusion	203
7. Career Adaptability	205
Robert E Morrison and Douglas T. Hall
Why Adaptability Is Critical to Contemporary Career Development	206
Observing the Experience of Adaptability	208
A General Model of Adaptability	210
An Integrated Model of Adaptability	226
Questions for Future Research	230
Conclusion	232

8. Managing Protean Career and Life Roles	235
Early Work: Interrole Analysis and Dual-Career Couples	236
Protean Careers and Dual-Career Relationships	243
Conclusion	252
Appendix	253
Part III: Implementing Career Concepts	255
9. Reflection: Self-Development for the Growth of Identity and Adaptability	257
What Is Reflection?	259
Reflection: Stereotype Versus Reality	261
How a CEO Reflects	262
Reflection in the Heat of Battle	265
Identity Growth Through Self-Reflection	267
Steps for Leveraging Learning Through Reflection and Questions for Research	269
Appendix	274
10. Toward More Strategic and Self-Directed Careers	279
The Business Need for a Career Development Plan	281
A Strategic Framework for Career Development	283
Priorities and Recommendations: Seven Steps to Growth for Career Practice and Research	288
Steps for Guiding the Protean Careerist: Questions for Career Self-Reflection or a Career Discussion	296
11. Looking Back at Careers In Organizations and Looking Ahead: Toward More Spiritual Careers	301
Looking Back at Careers in Organizations : Then and Now and Beyond	301
Conclusion	310
References	313
Index	335
About the Author	345