
Strategy and Human Resource Management

3rd edition

Peter Boxall

Professor of Human Resource Management, University of Auckland, New Zealand

and

John Purcell

Associate Fellow of the Industrial Relations Research Unit at Warwick University Business School, UK and a Deputy Chairman of the Central Arbitration Committee, ACAS, UK

palgrave
macmillan

Contents

List of boxes, figures and tables	viii
Introduction	xi
Acknowledgements	xv
1 The goals of human resource management	1
Defining human resource management	1
What are the goals of HRM?	11
Strategic tensions and problems in HRM	24
Summary and structure of the book	34
Part 1 Connecting strategy and human resource management
2 Strategy and the process of strategic management	39
Strategic problems and the strategies of firms	39
The process of strategic management	50
The role of HRM in improving strategic management processes	56
Conclusions	61
3 Strategic HRM: 'best fit' or 'best practice'?	63
Defining strategic HRM and HR strategy	64
Strategic HRM: the best-fit school	69
Strategic HRM: the best-practice school	85
Conclusions	94
4 Strategic HRM and sustained competitive advantage	97
The resource-based view of the firm: origins and assumptions	97
Resources and barriers to imitation	100

Competencies, 'table stakes' and dynamic learning	106
HR strategy, competitive parity and sustained advantage	112
Conclusions	120
Part 2 Managing work and people: searching for general principles
5 Work systems and the changing economics of production	125
Work systems in manufacturing	127
Globalisation, market reform and production offshoring	141
Work systems in services and the public sector	146
Conclusions	156
6 Managing employee voice	159
The contested nature and changing contours of employee voice	160
What are the impacts of employee voice systems?	178
Management style in employee relations	182
Conclusions	185
7 Managing individual employment relationships	188
The performance equation	189
Managing employee ability	193
Managing employee motivation	202
Conclusions	225
8 Linking HR systems to organisational performance	228
HR systems and organisational patterns in HR strategy	228
The 'black box' problem: links between HRM and performance	243
Conclusions	253
Part 3 Managing people in dynamic and complex business contexts
9 Human resource strategy and the dynamics of industry-based competition	257
Industry dynamics: cycles of stability and change	258
HR strategy and industry dynamics	263
Conclusions	278
10 Human resource strategy in multidivisional and multinational firms	280
Structure, control and HRM in multidivisional firms	282
Strategy and HRM in multinational firms	290
The HR implications of mergers and acquisitions	299
Conclusions	304

11 Conclusions and implications	307
The main themes of this book	307
Can strategic planning be a valuable resource in the firm?	316
The design of HR planning processes	318
Seeking integration: HR planning and the new management accounting	324
Conclusions	336
References	338
Author index	371
Subject index	380