

CONTENTS

Introduction	1
I. ELEMENTS OF SPACE	9
Space created by things, 9. Architectural implications, 13. The fields in between, 16. Empty and forlorn, 20. The dynamics of surrounding space, 25.
II. VERTICAL AND HORIZONTAL	32
Asymmetrical space, 32. Vision takes to the upright, 35. Piercing the ground, 39. Horizontality, 44. Weight and height, 46. Dynamics of the column, 48. The plan and the section, 53. The second and third dimensions, 57. The mind adds the meaning, 64.
III. SOLIDS AND HOLLOWES	67
Buildings in context, 67. Boundless ground, 68. The interplay of spaces, 69. The street as figure, 76. Crossings and squares, 81. Crossings in churches, 87. Inside and outside, 91. Concavity and convexity, 94. Interiors interrelated, 100. Looking from both sides, 101.
IV. AS IT LOOKS AND AS IT IS	110
Perceiving a solid, 110. Perspective deformations, 112. The thread of Ariadne, 114. The reading of vistas, 117. Models and sizes, 122. The range of images, 127. The parts of the whole, 130. The building made visible, 134. Obliqueness and depth, 138.

CONTENTS

V. MOBILITY	144
The autonomy of containers, 144. Dignified immobility, 146. Shelter and burrow, 148. Motor behavior, 151. The dynamics of the channel, 155.
VI. ORDER AND DISORDER	162
Contradiction is a flaw, 162. The constraints of order, 164. Three modifications of order, 165. How to make noise, 169. Disorder, its causes and effects, 171. Levels of complexity, 178. The Porta Pia, 183. Interaction of shapes, 188. Balancing elements, 193. The range of orders, 198. Different functions, different orders, 201.
VII. SYMBOLS THROUGH DYNAMICS	205
Visual labels, 206. Symbolism, 207. Inherent expression, 210. The artifact in nature, 213. Is it sculpture? 217. Dynamic proportions, 220. The openness of buildings, 225. Expansion from a base, 233. Cefalii in three dimensions. 239. The dynamics of arches, 242.
VIII. EXPRESSION AND FUNCTION	248
Ornament and beyond, 248. Expression from dynamics. 252. Function cannot make form, 254. What vessels express, 257. Spontaneous symbolism: Mies and Nervi, 262. Buildings mold behavior, 268. How ideas gain shape, 270. All thoughts take to building, 272.
Notes	275
Bibliography	279
Acknowledgments	284
Index	285