

THE SYSTEM OF OBJECTS

JEAN BAUDRILLARD

Translated by James Benedict

• UNIVERSITÄT
m LIECHTENSTEIN
Bibliothek

navayana

Contents

Translator's Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	1
A. The Functional System, or Objective Discourse	11
I Structures of Interior Design	13
The Traditional Environment	13
The Modern Object Liberated in its Function	15
The Model Interior	17
Modular Components	17
Walls and Daylight	19
Lighting	20
Mirrors and Portraits	20
Clocks and Time	11
Towards a Sociology of Interior Design?	23
Man the Interior Designer	25
II Structures of Atmosphere	30
Atmospheric Values: Colour	30
Traditional Colour	30
'Natural' Colour	31
'Functional' Colour	34
Hot and Cold	37
Atmospheric Values: Materials	38
Natural Wood/Cultural Wood	38
The Logic of Atmosphere	40
A Model Material: Glass	41

The Man of Relationship and Atmosphere	44
Seats	45
Cultural Connotation and Censorship	47
Atmospheric Values:
Gestural Systems and Forms	49
The Traditional Gestural System: Effort	49
The Functional Gestural System: Control	50
A New Operational Field	51
Miniaturization	53
Stylization, Manipulability, Envelopment	55
The End of the Symbolic Dimension	56
The Abstractness of Power	58
The Functionalist Myth	60
Functional Form: The Lighter	61
Formal Connotation: Tail Fins	61
Form as Camouflage	64
III Conclusion: Naturalness and Functionality	67
Addendum: The Domestic World and the Car	69

B. The Non-Functional System, or Subjective Discourse	75
I Marginal Objects: Antiques	77
Atmospheric Value: Historicalness	77
Symbolic Value: The Myth of the Origin 'Authenticity'	78
The Neo-Cultural Syndrome: Restoration	81
Synchronism, Diachronism, Anachronism	85
Reverse Projection: The Technical Object and Primitive Man	87
The Market in Antiques	88
Cultural Neo-Imperialism	90
II A Marginal System: Collecting	91
The Object Abstracted from Its Function	91
The Object as Passion	93
The Finest of Domestic Animals	95

A Serial Game	96
From Quantity to Quality: The Unique Object	98
Objects and Habits: Wrist-Watches	100
Objects and Time: A Controlled Cycle	102
The Sequestered Object: Jealousy	105
The Object Deconstructed: Perversion	107
From Serial Motivation to Real Motivation	111
A Discourse Addressed to Oneself	113
C. The Metafunctional and Dysfunctional System:
Gadgets and Robots	115
Technical Connotation: Automatism	117
'Functional' Transcendence	118
Functional Aberration: Gadgets	121
Pseudo-Functionality: Gizmos	123
Metafunctionality: Robots"	128
The Transformations of Technology	133
Technics and the Unconscious System	138
D. The Socio-Ideological System of Objects
and Their Consumption	145
I Models and Series	147
The Pre-Industrial Object and the Industrial Model	147
The 'Personalized' Object	150
Choice	151
Marginal Difference	152
The Ideal Nature of Models	153
From the Model to the Series	156
The Technical Deficit of the Serial Object	156
The 'Style' Deficit of the Serial Object	158
Class Differences	160
The Present as Privilege	162
A Misadventure of the Person	164
The Ideology of Models	166

II Credit	169
Rights and Duties of the Consumer-Citizen	169
The Precedence of Consumption: A New Ethic	172
The Obligation to Buy	173
The Miracle of Buying	174
The Ambiguity of the Domestic Object	175
III Advertising	178
Discourse on Objects and Discourse-As-Object	178
Advertising in the Indicative and in the Imperative	• 179
The Logic of Father Christmas	180
•Society as Maternal Agency: Airborne's Armchair	182
The Festival of Buying Power	187
Gratification/Repression: A Two-Sided Agency	190
The Presumption of Collectivity	194
Pax Washing Powder	194
Promotional Contests	197
Garap	197
A New Humanism?	199
Serial Conditioning	199
Freedom by Default	201
A New Language?	204
Structure and Demarcation: Brands	205
A Universal Code: Status	IXI
 Conclusion: Towards a Definition of 'Consumption'	 217