Fredmund Malik

Corporate Policy and Governance

How Organizations Self-Organize

Translated from German by Jutta Scherer,
JS textworks (Munich, Germany)

Campus Verlag
Frankfurt/New York

Contents

What This Is All About . . . . . 13

Concept and Logic of the Series
Management: Mastering Complexity . . . . . 16

Foundations . . . . . 16
Connections . . . . . 18
Possibilities and Limits . . . . . 18

What Readers Need to Understand in Order to Understand this Book . . . . . 22

Success Programming Its Own Failure . . . . . 23
When Thinking Fails to Grow With Practice... . . . . 24
Problems and Systems . . . . . 25
Old and New Sources . . . . . 26
Cybernetics as a Source of Relevant Insight . . . . . 27
Two Leaps of Evolution . . . . . 27
Taking Advantage of Complexity . . . . . 28
Right Management Is Cybernetic Management . . . . . 30

Part I
From Organization to Self-Organization . . . . . 31

1. Manifesto for Corporate [R]Evolution . . . . . 33

The [R]Evolutionary Transformation . . . . . 33
Categorical Change – Change of Categories . . . . . 34
Will the Company Survive? . . . . . 35
From Money to Knowledge: Will There Still Be Shareholder Meetings? . . 35

From Knowledge to Insight: Mundus Novus . . . . . 36
Right Corporate Policy is Systems Policy . . . . . 37
Management in the Age of Complexity . . . . . 38
Systemic Corporate Policy . . . . . 39
Systems Logic and Subject-Related Issues . . . . . 40
Effective Master Controls . . . . . 41
Issue Policy vs. Systems Policy . . . . . 42
Corporate Policy, Systems Policy, Governance . . . . . 43
Remaining Blind for System-Immanent Natural Forces . . . . . 44

2. Work Plan for Cybernetic Corporate Policy . . . . . 47

Roadmap to a Cybernetic Corporate Policy . . . . . 47
Orientation in the General Management Context . . . . . 52

3. Hypotheses . . . . . 54

4. Terminology . . . . . 56

Part II
New Times – New Management . . . . . 61

1. Constants through Change: Invariance, Self-Organization, Evolution . . . . . 63

Safe Landmarks at the Top Level . . . . . 63
Master Control, Cybernetics, and Governance . . . . . 71
Two Kinds of Systems – Two Kinds of Management . . . . . 78

2. Prototypes of System and Self-Organization . . . . . 89

System Prototype: Water . . . . . 89
Self-Organization Prototype: Traffic Circle . . . . . 91

3. Master Control through Corporate Policy . . . . . 93

What Corporate Policy Is . . . . . 94
The Core of Functioning . . . . . 95
Misconceived Pragmatism . . . . . 96
Examples of Complexity-Compatible Corporate Policy . . . . . 98
True Leadership and "Great Man Fantasies" . . . . . 100
Corporate Policy and Solid System Work . . . . . 101
Noncommittal Nature, Overregulation, Openness, Universal Validity . . . 105

Ethics and Morality . . . . . 108
What Should Be Regulated? . . . . . 110

4. Navigating in Complexity – Models for Overview, Insight, and Perspective . . . . . 111

Brain-Like Models . . . . . 111
World → System → Model → Concept . . . . . 113
The Model as a Thinking Tool . . . . . 115
Realization and Understanding by Means of Regulation Models . . . . . 116
Knowing What the Talk Is About: The Babylon Syndrome . . . . . 119
Like a Brain: Operations Room – Management GPS . . . . . 120
Three Purpose-Oriented Models . . . . . 122
Basic Model for Corporate Policy . . . . . 123
Farewell to Hierarchy: Embedding Replaces Ranking . . . . . 125
Recursive Logic for Cybernetic Systems . . . . . 129
Specialists, Generalists, Specialists for General Subjects . . . . . 131
Three Subconcepts for Master Control . . . . . 132
The Best Media for Master Control . . . . . 134

Part III
Instructions for Self-Organization . . . . . 137

1. What the Organization Should Do: The Business Concept . . . . . 139

The Purpose of the Organization . . . . . 140
The Business Mission . . . . . 159
Performance of the Institution: The Cockpit . . . . . 167
[R]Evolutionizing Corporate Control through CPC towards Brain-Like Processes . . . . . 177
The Cybernetic Power of Purpose and Mission . . . . . 185

2. Where the Organization Has to Function: The Environment Concept . . . . . 188

What Needs to be Considered?
A Common Topographical Map . . . . . 189
The Master Control Model for the Environment . . . . . 194
Master Controls for the Environment Model . . . . . 201
Categorical Change . . . . . 217

3. How and With What the Organization Should Function: The Management Concept . . . . . 221

The Same Management Everywhere and for All . . . . . 222
Tapping the Performance Potential . . . . . 223
Inducing Self-Organization . . . . . 224
Management Models for Master Control . . . . . 225
The General Management Model . . . . . 226
The Standard Model of Effectiveness – or "Management Wheel" . . . . . 228
The Integrated Management System (IMS) . . . . . 232
Navigation instead of Documentation . . . . . 237
An Overview of the Master Control "Management Concept" . . . . . 238
Implementing Corporate Policy: Order is Law times Application . . . . . 239
Management Training and Development: Return on Management Education . . . . . 241
Management Education is Critical for Success . . . . . 242
Charts of the Malik Management System (MMS) . . . . . 244

Part IV
Sovereignty and Leadership through Master Control . . . . . 251

1. Order, Time, Peace . . . . . 253

Their Working Conditions: Proliferating Complexity . . . . . 254
Their Task: Total System Master Control . . . . . 255
Their Challenge: Change Leaders . . . . . 255
Their Choice: Making Use of Complexity . . . . . 257
Their Conflict: Categorical Change . . . . . 257

2. Top-Management Frame of Reference for Change Leaders . . . . . 259

In the Cross-Hairs of Total System Control . . . . . 259
The Future is Created Now – Or It Has Been Missed . . . . . 261

3. Mastering the Master Controls – Source of Leadership . . . . . 267

Master Control through Corporate Policy . . . . . 267
Master Control through Corporate Modes . . . . . 269
Master Control through Corporate Issues . . . . . 272

4. A Look Forward – Current Top Management Issues . . . . . 274

Informing and "Educating" Shareholders and Representatives of the Financial Sector . . . . . 274

What is Profit? What is Wealth? . . . . . 275
Entrepreneurship and Top Management . . . . . 276
The Importance of Knowledge . . . . . 276
Thinking through the Strengths . . . . . 277
Developing Top Performers . . . . . 277
What is a Functioning Society? . . . . . 278
What Is the Meaning of Responsibility? . . . . . 278
Top Managers' Compensation . . . . . 279

5. The Crisis of Top Executive Bodies and Their REvolution . . . . . 280

Lack of Theory for Top Management Structures . . . . . 280
Will Formation Works Differently Today . . . . . 281
Breeding Ground for Conspiracy Theories . . . . . 282
Why Traditional Corporate Governance Is Not Enough . . . . . 283

6. REvolution: From Chief Executive Officer to Master Control Function . . . . . 285

Supercontrol instead of Superperson . . . . . 285
Total System Master Control Function . . . . . 286
Functioning instead of Personifying . . . . . 291

7. Top Management Teams . . . . . 295

Three Prerequisites . . . . . 295
Six Rules . . . . . 297

8. Master Controls for Leadership . . . . . 300

What Distinguishes Leaders . . . . . 301
Leadership Arises – From a Situation . . . . . 302
Master Controls for True Leadership . . . . . 302
Charisma? . . . . . 308

9. Heuristics for Winners: The Logic of Succeeding . . . . . 310

Principles for Assessing the Situation . . . . . 312
Principles for the Ability to Direct and Relate . . . . . 315
Principle of Proximity to Information . . . . . 320
Principles for the Power of Conviction . . . . . 322

Epilogue . . . . . 324

Appendix . . . . . 327

The Malik Management System And Its Users . . . . . 329

Designations and Identities . . . . . 330
History of Development . . . . . 330
Applications and Effects . . . . . 331
Autonomy for Management and Managers . . . . . 332
Modularity and Interfaces . . . . . 333
A Management System for Self-Thinkers . . . . . 334
Potential for Success Increasing With Qualification . . . . . 334
Self-Motivation for Self-Developers . . . . . 335
Care versus Kudos . . . . . 336
Authors and Acknowledgments . . . . . 337

About the Author . . . . . 338

Literature . . . . . 340

Index . . . . . 346