

INTERNATIONAL ENTREPRENEURSHIP

THE EFFECT OF FIRM AGE ON MOTIVES
FOR INTERNATIONALIZATION

CANDIDA G. BRUSH

GARLAND PUBLISHING, INC
NEW YORK & LONDON /1995

Contents

LIST OF TABLES AND EXHIBITS	xi
LIST OF APPENDICES	xv
PREFACE	xvii
INTRODUCTION	xix
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	xxxix
CHAPTER I- SMALL BUSINESS AND
INTERNATIONAL ACTIVITIES	3
International Trade Activity	3
New Businesses in the U.S. Economy	6
International Activity and New Companies	7
Differences Between New and Established
Small Businesses	8
Summary	12
CHAPTER II- THEORETICAL BACKGROUND	15
Behavioral Theories of Internationalization	15
Industrial Economics Theories of Internationalization	21
Classical	21
Neoclassical	24
Theories of Entrepreneurship	27
Toward a New Theoretical Model	30
Summary	31

CHAPTER III- EMPIRICAL LITERATURE REVIEW	>	35
Motives for Internationalization		35
Firm Characteristics and International Strategies		38
Factors Affecting Internationalization		39
Summary		44
CHAPTER IV- METHODOLOGY AND RESEARCH DESIGN		47
Overview		47
Conceptual Framework and Variables		48
Hypotheses		51
Research Design		57
Sampling Plan		61
Secondary Data Collection		64
Pilot Interviews		66
Cross Sectional Survey		68
Operationalizations and Measures		70
Validity and Reliability Issues		78
Summary		83
CHAPTER V- DATA ANALYSIS AND RESULTS		85
Response Rate		85
Sample Characteristics		88
Hypotheses Testing		94
Results of Discriminant Function Analysis		104
Analysis of Performance		107
Analysis of Size Effects		110
Summary		113
CHAPTER VI- DISCUSSION OF RESEARCH FINDINGS		115
General Findings—Compared to Theories		115
General Findings—Compared to Empirical Studies		120
-General Findings—Compared to Secondary Data		122
Similarities and Differences
Based on Age at Internationalization		123
Limitations		127
Summary	••	129

CHAPTER VII- CONCLUSIONS AND IMPLICATIONS	131
Summary of Research	131
Conclusions and Implications	134
Future Directions for International Entrepreneurship	142
APPENDICES	147
BIBLIOGRAPHY	193
TINDEX	219