

Fair Building

A Discourse and Action Analysis of Social Responsibility in the Construction Process and Its Challenges for Internationally Practising Architects and Their Firms

Clarissa Rhomberg
Fürst-Franz-Josef-Strasse
9490 Vaduz
clarissa.rhomberg@uni.li 140183 to obtain the degree of Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) in Architecture and Planning University of Liechtenstein

Graduate School
Programme: Architecture and Planning

Supervisor:

Prof. Peter Droege, University of Liechtenstein

Co-Supervisor:

Prof. Dr. Josef Wieland, Zeppelin University Friedrichshafen
Erin Moore, Assoc. Prof, University of Oregon

Working period: 1 September 2014 – 1 November 2017

Date of submission: 2 November 2017

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Abstract	9
Acknowledgements	10
1 Introduction	12
1.1 Project Relevance and Research Gap	16
1.2 Purpose of the Study and Research Questions	20
1.3 Positioning of the Author	22
1.4 Empirical Approach	23
A. THEORETICAL FRAMEWORK	25
2 Sustainability	27
2.1 History of Sustainability	27
2.2 Sustainability in Architecture and Planning	30
2.3 Social Sustainability in Architecture and Planning	34
2.4 Sustainable Development in Action	36
3 Professional Ethics in Architecture	41
3.1 The Profession of Architecture	41
3.2 Social Engagement of Architects	43
3.3 The Global Architects and Their Firms	45
3.4 Code of Conduct	50
4 Governance Ethics: Architecture as a Globalized Practice	52
4.1 Transculturalism in Architecture and Planning	54
4.2 Leadership in Architecture	57
4.3 Discourse on Social Responsibility	59
5 Construction Value Chain	63

5.1	Construction as Nexus of Stakeholders	63
5.2	Value Chain in Construction	68
5.2.1	Global Construction Value Chain	73
5.2.2	Shared Value Concept	76
5.3	Fairer Condition in the Construction Supply Chain	79
B.	EMPIRICAL FRAMEWORK	82
6	Discourse Analysis and Argumentative Discourse Analysis	82
6.1	Applying ADA to This Study	85
6.1.1	Research Methods Used in this Study	88
6.2	Stakeholder Analysis	89
6.2.1	General Assessment of Stakeholder Analysis	89
6.2.2	Application of Stakeholder Analysis to the Case	89
6.3	Expert Interviews	91
6.3.1	General Assessment of Expert Interviews	91
6.3.2	Application of Expert Interviews	93
6.3.3	Interview Design and Thematic Clusters	93
6.3.4	Respondents	94
6.3.5	Conducting Interviews	97
6.3.6	Transcription	100
6.4	Content Analysis	101
6.4.1	General Assessment of Content Analysis	101
6.4.2	Coding of the Expert Interviews	103
6.5	Validation of Data, Role of the Researcher, and Ethical Considerations	106
C.	CODING AND FINDINGS	107
7	Coding	107
7.1	Reflections and Limitations of the Methods:	112

8	Findings	114
8.1	Individual Level: Responsibility of Architects	115
8.1.1	Personal Background	115
8.1.2	Culture	117
8.1.3	Design Process	119
8.1.4	Architecture as a Profession	122
8.1.5	Individual Social Responsibility	124
8.2	Organizational Level: Abilities of Architectural Firms	127
8.2.1	Office Organization	127
8.2.2	The Globalization of Architectural Firms	131
8.2.3	Sustainability	133
8.2.4	Organizational Social Responsibility	135
8.3	Market Level: Potential Incentives for Architectural Firms	137
8.3.1	Identifying Stakeholders	141
8.3.2	Prioritizing Stakeholders	146
8.4	Summary of Findings	149
9	Interpretation	152
9.1.1	Responsibility of the Architect	152
9.1.2	The Architectural Firms' Contributions to a Responsible Practice	154
9.1.3	Incentives for a Multi-Stakeholder Approach	155
10	Learning Processes for Value Management	157
10.1.1	Further Possible Research	162
D	OUTLOOKS	164
11	Outlooks from a Scientific, an Educational and a Practical Perspective	165
11.1	Outlook – Scientific Debate	165
11.2	Outlook – Education – Curriculum for Executive Master	167
11.3	Outlook – Practical Action	172
11.3.1	Shared Value Creation in the Construction Chain	174

E	FAIR BUILDING	177
12	Fair Trade as Example	177
12.1	Multiple Levels of Fair Building	180
12.1.1	Policy Level	182
12.1.2	Financing Level	183
12.1.3	Planning Level	184
12.1.4	Production Level	185
12.1.5	Transaction level	186
12.1.6	Consumption Level	187
	References	189
	Electronic Source	199
	List of Figures	206
	List of Tables	207
	List of Boxes	207
	Abbreviations	208
	Declaration of Authorship	210
	CV	211
	Appendices (in German)	215
	ANNEX I: Interview Cover Letter
	ANNEX II: Declaration of Consent
	ANNEX III: Interview Schedule
	ANNEX IV: Questionnaire for Semi-Structured Interviews
	ANNEX V: Transcription of the Interviews	