

The Melnikov House Icon of the Avant-Garde, Family Home, Architecture Museum

Pavel Kuznetsov

Modern Photography by Denis Esakov

Contents

Introduction. Discovering Melnikov	7
The House and its Researchers	13
Brief Description of the Cylindrical House	15
Historical and Political Context to Building the House	27
New Materials on the Architect's Life and Projects	33
Letters, Diaries, Notes, Documents	33
Melnikov on the House on Krivoarbatsky	42
Makhorka Pavilion (1923)	45
Sarcophagus for the Body of Lenin (1924)	53
Pavilion in Paris (1925)	59
Workers' Clubs (1927-1929)	65
Unknown Projects	71
Photographs and Negatives	73
New Materials about the House on Krivoarbatsky: An Overview	75
Construction of the House (1927-1929)	85
Chronology of Events in the First Stage of Creating the House (1927)	85
In Search of the Ideal House	89
Calculation of the Structures – What Does the House Weigh?	102
Economics of Building the House	108
Original Heating System of the House (1928-1929)	112

Masterpiece of the Avant-Garde in Soviet Reality (1940-1970s)	117
Repair and Replanning of the House (1950-1952)	117
Hot-Water Heating Replaces Stove Heating (1957-1958)	120
State Insurance of the House (1940-1950s)	121
Attempt to Evict Melnikov and Last Wave of Persecution (1961-1963)	124
Replacement of the Original Roofing (1964)....	124
The House on Krivoarbatsky and Project For a Cinema on the Arbat (1967)	127
Melnikov House at the Turn of the Century (1980-2010s)	129
Recognition of the House as a Monument, 1990s Restoration and Current Problems	129
Restoring the Memorial Contents and Furnishings	132
Initial Phase of Pre-Restoration Survey	134
Losses and Replacements	138
Instead of a Conclusion. Preliminary Findings	140
Notes	142
Modern Photography by Denis Esakov (2015-2016)	145
Measured Drawings (1982)	192
Chronology of the Melnikov House and Inhabitants	211
Melnikov House in Facts and Figures	219
Biographical Data	220
Acknowledgements	222
Contact Information	223