Coaching for Women Entrepreneurs

Carianne M. Hunt

Honorary Research Fellow, Manchester Business School, University of Manchester, UK

Sandra L. Fielden

Honorary Senior Lecturer, Manchester Business School, University of Manchester, UK

NEW HORIZONS IN MANAGEMENT

Edward Elgar PUBLISHING

Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA

Contents

List of figures, tables and boxes x
Author biographies xii

1 Introduction 1
Structure of the book 3
The first phase of the study 4
Summary 6

2 Internal influences on women entrepreneurs 9
Characteristics of women entrepreneurs 9
The gendered nature of entrepreneurship 12
Entrepreneurial learning 14
Entrepreneurial self-efficacy 16
Summary 19

3 External influences on women entrepreneurs 27
Human capital – education and experience 27
Social capital 29
Formal business advice and support 34
Summary 37

4 Coaching as a technique for development 45
What is coaching? 46
Differences and similarities between coaching and other development interventions 49
Types of coaching 51
Coaching models 52
Barriers and boundaries in coaching 54
Benefits and limitations of coaching relationships 55
E-coaching and e-mentoring 58
Coaching and self-efficacy 61
Summary 64

5 The potential of coaching for women entrepreneurs 72
Coaching in small businesses 72
Phase one – women entrepreneurs: demographics 74
Women's business support requirements 75
The potential of coaching for women entrepreneurs 78
Qualities and skills of a coach 83
Viability of online methods of coaching 87
Considerations for developing coaching for women entrepreneurs 89
Summary 90

6 Delivering the Tailored E-Coaching (TEC) programme 96
Definition of coaching used in the TEC programme 96
Core components of the TEC programme 99
Application and matching process 100
Networking events 104
The website 105
Evaluation 106
Evaluation objectives 106
Control group 107
Data collection 107
Questionnaires 107
Entrepreneurial self-efficacy and business support questionnaire design 110
Entrepreneurial attitudes questionnaire design 111
General evaluation questionnaire design 112
Interview design 113
Data analysis 117
Questionnaire data 117
Interview data 117
Summary 118

7 The iippact of the TEC programme on human and social capital 123
Phase two: coachees and the control group: demographics 123
Development objectives and goals 124
Increasing human and social capital 127
Improving perceptions 130

Goach outcomes 134
Summary 136

8 Entrepreneurial learning in'coaching relationships 141
Learning through practice 142
Learning through reinforcement 144
Learning through understanding 146
Learning about self 149
Summary 151

9 Implications for theory and practice 157
Contribution to theoretical debate 157
Online communication 163
Economic benefits 165
Transferability to other groups and settings 167
A reciprocal relationship 168
Recommendations for future research 169
Coachee perceptions 170
Online textual analysis 171
More longitudinal research 172
360 degree feedback 172
Dysfunctional relationships 173
Summary 174

Index 181