

Taxation and Value Creation

*EATLP Annual Congress Vienna
18-20 June 2020**

Editors:
Werner Haslehner and Marie Lamensch

* The Annual Congress was cancelled due to the COVID-19 pandemic. This book is based on the written reports of the topical and national reporters.

IBFD

Volume 19
EATLP International Tax Series

Table of Contents

Preface	v
----------------	---

About the Authors	vii
--------------------------	-----

Part One General Report

Chapter 1: General Report on Value Creation and Taxation: Outlining the Debate	3
Werner Haslechner and Marie Lamensch
1.1. Introduction	3
1.2. The meaning of “value” and “value creation”	4
1.2.1. Theories of value and value creation	4
1.2.2. Value creation and income taxation: A tenuous link	5
1.2.3. Value creation and VAT: Is there a link?	10
1.3. Value creation and international tax reform	12
1.3.1. The reasons and options for reform	12
1.3.2. Value creation and the OECD Model	13
1.3.3. Aligning taxation and value creation in BEPS 1.0	14
1.3.4. BEPS 2.0: Going beyond transfer pricing - And value creation?	17
1.3.5. The impact of international tax reform on inter-national equity	21
1.4. The meaning and role of “value creation” in national income tax law	23
1.4.1. The relevant meaning of “value” in national tax laws	24
1.4.2. Value creating assets and their valuation	25
1.4.3. The relevance of “changes in value” in national tax laws	26
1.4.4. Value creation and attribution of income	27
1.4.5. The relevance of value-creating activity for taxation	29
1.4.6. Taxing value creation in non-market transactions	30
1.4.7. The importance of localized value creation source rules	30

Table of Contents

1.4.8.	Aligning domestic transfer pricing approaches to the OECD guidance on “value creation”	32
1.4.9.	Changes in national tax law to tackle digitalization challenges	33
1.5.	Conclusion	35
 Part Two Thematic Reports
Chapter 2:	Value Creation and Income Taxation: A Coherent Framework for Reform?	39
	Werner Haslehner
2.1.	Introduction	39
2.2.	The meaning of “value creation”: A cross-disciplinary perspective	41
2.2.1.	The (lack of) meaning of value and the (tenuous) link between value creation and income	42
2.2.2.	Allocation of taxing rights over income: A production-based paradigm	44
2.3.	An International Tax Reform based on (a coherent concept of) value creation?	49
2.3.1.	Post-BEPS transfer pricing as an alignment of taxation with value creation	50
2.3.2.	Allocating income beyond the arm’s length standard	54
2.3.3.	Further questions on the use of “value creation” as a basis for allocating taxing rights	58
2.4.	Conclusion	60
Chapter 3:	Value Creation and VAT	63
	Marie Lamensch
3.1.	Scope and objective of this report	63
3.2.	Key features of the value added tax system	63
3.2.1.	A broad based, multi-stage but non-cumulative consumption tax	63

3.2.2.	Transnational/cross-border application of the tax	66
3.2.2.1.	Tax levied “at destination”	67
3.2.2.2.	“Fixed establishment” for VAT purposes vs “permanent establishment” for CIT purposes	68
3.3.	Valuation rules (EU)	69
3.3.1.	General rules	69
3.3.2.	Special rules	73
3.3.2.1.	Imports	73
3.3.2.2.	Transactions between related parties	74
3.3.2.3.	Internal and deemed supplies	79
3.3.2.4.	Special schemes	79
3.4.	Value creation and VAT: Is there a link?	80
3.4.1.	The meaning of “value” under the “value added tax” system	80
3.4.2.	Is VAT levied upon “value addition” in the production process?	81
3.4.3.	Is there a link between “value addition” and “value creation” and what is the consequence of a “reduction” of value?	82
3.5.	“Value addition”, “value creation” and allocation and enforcement of taxing rights	83
3.5.1.	Inter-nation equity	84
3.5.2.	Enforcement on non-resident taxpayers and increased compliance burden	86
3.6.	Conclusion	88
Chapter 4:	Taxation in the Place of Value Creation: An Economic Perspective	89
	Clemens Fuest
4.1.	Introduction: Corporate taxation and idea of taxation in the place of value creation	89
4.2.	The role of the corporate income tax in the overall tax system	90
4.3.	What does “taxation in the place of value creation” mean and how could it be implemented?	92

Table of Contents

4.4.	Existing international tax rules: Does the location of value creation play a role?	96
4.5.	Why do the existing rules need to be reformed?	97
4.6.	Would more taxation where value is created improve economic efficiency or fairness of the international tax system?	98
4.6.1.	Fairness in the international distribution of taxing rights	98
4.6.2.	Economic efficiency and tax distortions	99
4.7.	Do the current OECD reform proposals follow the principle of aligning taxation with value creation?	100
4.8.	Conclusions	103
Chapter 5:	Value Creation and Transfer Pricing	107
	Jerome Monsenego
5.1.	Introduction	107
5.2.	Brief historical overview	108
5.3.	The 2017 update to the OECD transfer pricing guidelines with respect to the objective of aligning transfer pricing outcomes with value creation	114
5.4.	Comparative overview	125
5.5.	The concept of value creation in the “Pillar One” project	126
5.6.	Conclusion	128
Chapter 6:	The Value Creation Mythology	131
	Richard Collier
6.1.	Introduction	131
6.2.	What does the term value creation actually mean or refer to?	133

6.3.	Does the notion of value creation have a firm basis as a principle in the international tax system?	138
6.4.	Is it helpful to posit value creation as a paradigm or principle for interpreting or applying the ALP?	143
6.5.	Value creation as a paradigm of the existing ALP system	145
6.6.	Value creation as a normative standard	149
6.7.	Conclusion	154
Chapter 7:	Value Creation, the Benefit Principle and Efficiency-Related Allocation of Taxing Rights Wolfgang Schon	155
7.1.	Value creation - Its rise and fall in international tax policy	155
7.2.	Benefit principle and value creation	158
7.3.	Value creation and market countries	161
7.4.	Benefit principle, tax competition and economic efficiency	163
7.5.	Economic efficiency, markets and rents	165
7.6.	Efficient taxation of the digital(ized) economy	167
7.7.	Conclusion	168
Chapter 8:	Value Creation and Inter-Nation Equity Irene J.J. Burgers	171
8.1.	Introduction	171
8.2.	Can a value creation based allocation be justified with the idea of inter-nation equity?	171
8.2.1.	Richard and Peggy Musgrave's inter-nation equity: Four justifications for source taxation	171

Table of Contents

8.2.2.	Other scholars: The international tax system can be used for achieving human rights	174
8.2.3.	Value creation based allocation can be justified with the idea of inter-nation equity	176
8.2.3.1.	Inter-nation equity built on economic ideas of fairness	177
8.2.3.1.1.	Origin	177
8.2.3.1.2.	Location of investment	177
8.2.3.1.3.	Benefit, origin and economic rent	178
8.2.3.1.4.	Economic rent	180
8.2.3.2.	Inter-nation equity built on political ideas of fairness	180
8.3.	Would a change of attribution to attribution on the basis of a standard of “value creation” result in a fairer distribution of taxing rights at the global level?	181
8.4.	Conclusion	183
Chapter 9:	Value Chain Analysis: An Analytical Tool to Evaluate Economic Contribution in the Overall Framework of Value Creation	185
	Emmanuel Llinares and Ralph Meghames
9.1.	Introduction	185
9.2.	The purpose of a value chain analysis	186
9.3.	Value chain analysis - Proposed framework for application	188
9.3.1.	Value chain concept	188
9.3.2.	Value chain analysis: A proposed analytical framework for transfer pricing	189
9.3.2.1.	Step 1. Analysing value drivers	190
9.3.2.2.	Step 2. Linking the enterprise’s functions, risks and (intangible) assets with value drivers	191
9.3.2.3.	Step 3. Mapping roles, responsibilities and control of the individual group entities	191
9.3.2.4.	Step 4. Assessing bargaining positions in the internal pricing process	194

9.4.	What are the next steps to a value chain analysis?	195
9.4.1.	From value chain analysis to pricing transactions and profit allocation	195
9.4.2.	Uses and misuses of value chain analyses	196
9.5.	Conclusion	197
Chapter 10:	Value Creation and Exit Taxes	199
	Claus Staringer
10.1.	Introduction	199
10.2.	Valuation for exit taxes - An issue primarily under domestic law	201
10.3.	International coordination of exit tax valuation	202
10.3.1.	The case for bilateral coordination	202
10.3.2.	Valuation coordinated by tax treaty	202
10.3.3.	The weakness of a coordination rule	203
10.4.	Coordination by methodology - The use of OECD transfer pricing principles for exit taxation	204
10.4.1.	The OECD arm's length principle as an internationally accepted valuation framework	204
10.4.2.	The Austrian example	205
10.4.3.	Practical effects of a coordinated valuation methodology	206
10.5.	What can OECD Transfer Pricing Guidelines tell about valuation in exit tax cases?	207
10.5.1.	Delineating the "actual transaction" in exit tax cases	207
10.5.2.	Valuation effects of a fictitious sale	208
10.5.3.	Valuation under actual circumstances of the case	209
10.5.4.	Valuation for exit tax purposes is not an exact science	209
10.6.	Exit tax valuation under the ATAD	210
10.6.1.	Valuation at "market value" (article 5(6) ATAD)	210
10.6.2.	Coordination of valuation (article 5(5) ATAD)	211

Part Three
National Reports

Chapter 11: Austria	215
Sabine Kirchmayr and Stefanie Geringer
11.1. Value creation and (individual and corporate) income taxation	215
11.1.1. Concept of “value”	215
11.1.2. Concept of “asset”	217
11.1.3. Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use	218
11.1.4. Value creation/income attribution	220
11.1.5. Value changes	223
11.1.6. Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	225
11.1.7. Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	226
11.1.8. Transfer pricing and value creation	229
11.2. Digitalization of businesses and value creation:
Impact on domestic tax legislation	231
11.2.1. Recent changes to national tax legislation	231
11.2.2. The perceived need to align international taxation and value creation	233
Chapter 12: Belgium	235
Enguerrand Marique and Karl Pauwels
12.1. Value creation and income taxation	235
12.1.1. Concept of “value”	235
12.1.1.1. The term “value”	235
12.1.1.2. Singular definition?	235
12.1.1.3. Different types of “value”	235
12.1.1.3.1. Assets used in a professional context	235
12.1.1.4. Concept of “value” that is most directly underlying the structure of income taxation	237
12.1.2. Concept of “asset”	238
12.1.2.1. “Asset” for tax purposes	238
12.1.2.2. Recognition for tax purposes and the relationship with private law and the accounting system	239
12.1.2.3. Relevance of the asset’s function for its treatment under income tax law	241

12.1.2.4.	Case studies: characterizing specific assets for tax purposes	241
12.1.2.5.	Can the following examples (given by the 2017 OECD Transfer Pricing Guidelines) qualify as an asset for tax purposes?	244
12.1.3.	Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	245
12.1.3.1.	Different tangible assets	245
12.1.3.2.	Categories of intangible assets	246
12.1.3.3.	Consideration into which asset category “data” falls or should fall	249
12.1.4.	Value creation/income attribution	249
12.1.4.1.	How are assets and income connected thereto attributed to a taxable person?	249
12.1.4.2.	Assets’ income attribution to multiple taxpayers	252
12.1.4.3.	Recent tax developments with respect to AI	252
12.1.5.	Value changes	252
12.1.5.1.	Change of use, function or location of an asset with regard to value changes	253
12.1.6.	Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	255
12.1.7.	Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	255
12.1.7.1.	Non-residents	255
12.1.7.2.	Residents foreign income	258
12.1.7.3.	Comparing “source” rules	259
12.1.8.	Transfer pricing and value creation	259
12.1.8.1.	General transfer pricing policy	259
12.1.8.2.	2017 OECD TPG	260
12.1.8.3.	Residual profits	261
12.1.8.4.	Value creation in case law	261
12.2.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	262
12.2.1.	Recent changes to national tax legislation	262
12.2.1.1.	New tax incentives	262
12.2.1.2.	The “value creation” link	263
12.2.1.3.	Public debate	264
12.2.2.	The perceived need to align international taxation and value creation	265

Chapter 13: Brazil	267
Luis Eduardo Schoueri and Gabriel Bez Batti
13.1. Value creation and income taxation	267
13.1.1. “Value” as a core for the taxation of income in Brazil	267
13.1.2. The concept of asset in domestic law and its relevance for tax purposes	270
13.1.3. Accounting rules for determining the value of assets in Brazil	273
13.1.4. Normative rules to determine attribution of income in Brazil	275
13.1.5. Revaluation of assets and tax neutrality	277
13.1.6. Brazilian income tax law applied to non-market transactions	278
13.1.7. “Value creation” in cross-border situations: Brazilian limited approach	280
13.1.8. Brazilian transfer pricing rules: A new era is coming?	282
13.2. Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on Brazilian tax legislation	284
13.2.1. Tax reform in Brazil as a chance to implement “value creation”	284
Chapter 14: China (People’s Rep.)	287
Na Li
14.1. Value creation and income taxation	287
14.1.1. Concept of “value”	287
14.1.2. Concept of “asset”	289
14.1.3. Value “creation”: Determination of asset value	290
14.1.3.1. Upon creation	290
14.1.3.2. Upon subsequent use	292
14.1.4. Attribution of assets and income	292
14.1.5. Value changes	293
14.1.6. Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	293
14.1.7. Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	294
14.1.7.1. Non-residents’ income in China	294
14.1.7.2. Foreign income of Chinese residents	296

14.1.8.	Transfer pricing and value creation	297
14.1.8.1.	Transfer pricing rules in general	297
14.1.8.2.	Response to the 2017 OECD TPGs	298
14.1.8.3.	Residual profits	300
14.1.8.4.	Case law on the concept of “value creation”	301
14.2.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	301
14.2.1.	Recent changes to national tax legislation	301
14.2.2.	Alignment of international taxation and value creation	302
Chapter 15:	Croatia	305
	Hrvoje Arbutina and Natasa Zunic Kovacevic
15.1.	Value creation and (individual/corporate) income taxation	305
15.1.1.	Concept of “value”	305
15.1.2.	Concept of “asset”	307
15.1.3.	Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	309
15.1.4.	Value creation/income attribution	311
15.1.5.	Value changes	312
15.1.6.	Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	312
15.1.7.	Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	314
15.1.8.	Transfer pricing and value creation	317
15.2.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	319
15.2.1.	Recent changes to national tax legislation	319
15.2.2.	The perceived need to align international taxation and value creation	320
Chapter 16:	Czech Republic	321
	Radim Bohac, Michal Radvan and Petr Vodak
16.1.	Value creation and (individual/corporate) income taxation	321
16.1.1.	Concept of “value”	321
16.1.2.	Concept of “asset”	322

Table of Contents

16.1.3.	Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	324
16.1.4.	Value creation/Income attribution	326
16.1.5.	Value changes	326
16.1.6.	Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	328
16.1.7.	Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	330
16.1.8.	Transfer pricing and value creation	332
16.2.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	335
16.2.1.	Recent changes to national tax legislation	335
16.2.2.	The perceived need to align international taxation and value creation	340
Chapter 17:	Denmark	341
	Louise Fjord Kjersgaard, Henrik Guldhammer Nielsen and Katja Dyppeel Weber
17.1.	Value creation and (individual/corporate) income taxation	341
17.1.1.	Concept of “value”	341
17.1.2.	Concept of “asset”	342
17.1.3.	Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	344
17.1.4.	Value creation/Income attribution	345
17.1.5.	Value changes	346
17.1.6.	Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	347
17.1.7.	Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	348
17.1.8.	Transfer pricing and value creation	349
17.2.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	351
17.2.1.	Recent changes to national tax legislation	351
17.2.2.	The perceived need to align international taxation and value creation	352

Chapter 18: Finland	353
Timo Torkkel
18.1. Value creation and (individual/corporate) income taxation	353
18.1.1. Concept of “value”	353
18.1.2. Concept of “asset”	355
18.1.3. Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	357
18.1.4. Value creation/Income attribution	358
18.1.5. Value changes	361
18.1.6. Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	364
18.1.7. Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	367
18.1.8. Transfer pricing and value creation	368
18.2. Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	371
18.2.1. Recent changes to national tax legislation	371
18.2.2. The perceived need to align international taxation and value creation	373
Chapter 19: France	375
Nicolas Vergnet
19.1. Value creation and income taxation	375
19.1.1. Concept of “value”	375
19.1.2. Concept of “asset”	376
19.1.3. Value “creation”: Determination of assetvalue upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	379
19.1.4. Value creation/Income attribution	381
19.1.5. Value changes	383
19.1.6. Value recognition in case of non-markettransactions	385
19.1.7. Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	387
19.1.8. Transfer pricing and value creation	389

Table of Contents

19.2.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	390
19.2.1.	Recent changes to national tax legislation	390
19.2.2.	The perceived need to align international taxation and value creation	393
Chapter 20:	Germany	395
	Matthias Valta and Timo Lemm
20.1.	Value creation and (individual/corporate) income taxation	395
20.1.1.	Concept of “value”	395
20.1.2.	Concept of “asset”	396
20.1.3.	Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	397
20.1.4.	Value creation/Income attribution	399
20.1.5.	Value changes	400
20.1.6.	Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	402
20.1.7.	Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	403
20.1.8.	Transfer pricing and value creation	406
20.2.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	409
20.2.1.	Recent changes to national tax legislation and debates about the need of changes	409
20.2.2.	The perceived need to align international taxation and value creation	412
Chapter 21:	Greece	413
	Katerina Perrou
21.1.	Value creation and (individual and corporate) income taxation	413
21.1.1.	Concept of “value”	413
21.1.2.	Concept of “asset”	415
21.1.3.	Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	416
21.1.4.	Value creation/Income attribution	417
21.1.5.	Value changes	418

21.1.6.	Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	420
21.1.7.	Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	421
21.1.8.	Transfer pricing and value creation	423
21.2.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	424
21.2.1.	Recent changes to national tax legislation	424
21.2.2.	The perceived need to align international taxation and value creation	424
Chapter 22:	Hungary	427
	Daniel Mate Kovacs, Zsolt Szatmari and Istvan Simon
22.1.	Value creation and income taxation	427
22.1.1.	Concept of “value”	427
22.1.2.	Concept of “asset”	431
22.1.3.	Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	433
22.1.4.	Value creation/Income attribution	435
22.1.5.	Value changes	437
22.1.6.	Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	438
22.1.7.	Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	439
22.1.8.	Transfer pricing and value creation	441
22.2.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	443
22.2.1.	Recent changes to national tax legislation	443
22.2.2.	The perceived need to align international taxation and value creation	445
Chapter 23:	India	449
	Divesh Chawla
23.1.	Value creation and (individual/corporate) income taxation	449
23.1.1.	Introduction	449
23.1.2.	Concept of “value”	449
23.1.3.	Concept of “asset”	450

Table of Contents

23.1.4.	Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	452
23.1.5.	Value creation/Income attribution	453
23.1.6.	Value changes	455
23.1.7.	Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	456
23.1.8.	Importance of value creation in the cross-border situation	456
23.1.9.	Transfer pricing and value creation	459
23.2.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	461
23.2.1.	Recent changes to national tax legislation	461
23.2.2.	Equalization levy	462
23.2.2.1.	EL on digital/online advertisement	463
23.2.2.2.	EL on e-commerce supply or services	464
23.2.3.	Goods and Services Tax (“GST”)	464
23.2.4.	Significant economic presence	465
23.2.5.	Income from advertisement and data	467
23.2.6.	Withholding tax	467
Chapter 24:	Italy	469
	Dario Stevanato
24.1.	Concept of “value”	469
24.2.	Concept of “asset”	470
24.3.	Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	473
24.4.	Value creation/Income attribution	475
24.5.	Value changes	477
24.6.	Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	478
24.7.	Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	480
24.8.	Transfer pricing and value creation	482

24.9.	Recent changes to national tax legislation	484
24.10.	The perceived need to align international taxation and value creation	487
Chapter 25:	Luxembourg	491
	Alain Steichen
25.1.	Concept of “value”	491
25.2.	Concept of “asset”	494
25.3.	Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	499
25.4.	Value creation/Income attribution	501
25.5.	Value changes	503
25.6.	Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	505
25.7.	Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	507
25.8.	Transfer pricing and value creation	509
25.9.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	511
Chapter 26:	The Netherlands	513
	Ronald Russo and Cees Peters
26.1.	Value creation and (individual/corporate) income taxation	513
26.1.1.	Concept of “value”	513
26.1.2.	Concept of “asset”	513
26.1.3.	Value creation: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	515
26.1.4.	Value creation/Income attribution	516
26.1.5.	Value changes	517

Table of Contents

26.1.6.	Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	518
26.1.7.	Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	518
26.1.7.1.	Dutch income of non-resident taxpayers	518
26.1.7.2.	Foreign income of resident taxpayers	520
26.1.7.3.	Academic literature	520
26.1.8.	Transfer pricing and value creation	522
26.1.8.1.	Introductory considerations	522
26.1.8.2.	Actual delineation of the controlled transaction: Functional analysis including analysis of risks	523
26.1.8.3.	Intangibles	524
26.1.8.4.	Residual profits and application of profit split method	525
26.1.8.5.	Case law on “value creation”	525
26.2.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	526
26.2.1.	Recent changes to national tax legislation	526
26.2.2.	Academic literature	527
Chapter 27:	Spain	529
	Eva Escribano and Aitor Navarro
27.1.	Value creation and (individual/corporate) income taxation	529
27.1.1.	Concept of value	531
27.1.2.	Concept of asset	534
27.1.3.	Value creation	537
27.1.4.	Value creation/Income attribution	537
27.1.5.	Value changes	538
27.1.6.	Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	540
27.1.7.	Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	540
27.1.8.	Transfer pricing and value creation	542
27.2.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	544
27.2.1.	Recent changes to national tax legislation	544
27.2.2.	The perceived need to align international taxation and value creation	547

Chapter 28: Sweden	549
Bjorn Westberg
28.1. Value creation and (individual/corporate) income taxation	549
28.1.1. Concept of “value”	549
28.1.2. Concept of “asset”	550
28.1.3. Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	553
28.1.4. Value creation/Income attribution	554
28.1.5. Value changes	555
28.1.6. Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	557
28.1.7. Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	557
28.1.8. Transfer pricing and value creation	559
28.2. Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	561
28.2.1. Recent changes to national tax legislation	561
28.2.2. Need to reform international tax law?	562
Chapter 29: Switzerland	565
Raoul Stocker and Patrick Schmid
29.1. Value creation and income taxation	565
29.1.1. Concept of “value”	565
29.1.2. Concept of “asset”	568
29.1.3. Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	570
29.1.4. Value creation/Income attribution	573
29.1.5. Value changes	577
29.1.6. Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	579
29.1.7. Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	580
29.1.8. Transfer pricing and value creation	582

Table of Contents

29.2.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation:
	Impact on domestic tax legislation	583
29.2.1.	Recent changes to national tax legislation	583
29.2.2.	The perceived need to align international taxation and value creation	584
Chapter 30:	Turkey	587
	Doğan Şenyüz, Emrah Ferhatoglu and Güneş Yılmaz
30.1.	Value creation and income taxation	587
30.1.1.	Concept of “value”	587
30.1.1.1.	Concept of “value” in income taxation	587
30.1.1.2.	Types of “value” in taxation	589
30.1.1.3.	Definition of income	590
30.1.2.	Concept of “asset”	590
30.1.2.1.	Types of assets and description of asset for tax purposes	591
30.1.2.2.	Definition of intangible asset and examples of intangible asset	591
30.1.2.3.	Certain intangible asset	592
30.1.3.	Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	594
30.1.3.1.	Classification of assets	594
30.1.3.2.	Classification of certain assets: Intangibles	594
30.1.3.3.	Consideration of a specific intangible asset for taxation purposes: Data	595
30.1.4.	Value creation/Income attribution	595
30.1.4.1.	Asset and income attribution to a taxable person	595
30.1.4.2.	Asset and income attribution to AI	596
30.1.5.	Value changes	596
30.1.5.1.	Specific circumstances where value changes “realized”	597
30.1.5.2.	Value changes arising from connection between a person and business-owned asset	597
30.1.6.	Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	597
30.1.7.	Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	599
30.1.7.1.	Source rules and connecting factors for income taxation	599
30.1.7.2.	Income taxation of residents’ foreign income	601
30.1.8.	Transfer pricing and value creation	602

30.1.8.1.	Definition and application of transfer pricing in the context of Turkish tax law	602
30.1.8.2.	Transfer pricing rules on the analysis of risk	604
30.1.8.3.	Definition of intangibles provided by transfer pricing rules	605
30.1.8.4.	Income attribution approach for income from intangible property	606
30.1.8.5.	Attributed transfer pricing methods for residual profits	606
30.2.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	607
30.2.1.	Recent changes in national tax legislation	607
30.2.1.1.	Withholding tax on Internet advertising services	607
30.2.1.2.	Digital service tax	607
30.2.2.	The perceived need to align international taxation and value creation	609
Chapter 31:	Ukraine	611
	Danylo Getmantsev
31.1.	Value creation and (individual/corporate) income taxation	611
31.1.1.	Concept of “value”	611
31.1.2.	Concept of “asset”	615
31.1.3.	Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	617
31.1.4.	Value creation/Income attribution	619
31.1.5.	Value changes	622
31.1.6.	Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	623
31.1.7.	Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	624
31.1.8.	Transfer pricing and value creation	624
31.2.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Impact on domestic tax legislation	627

Chapter 32: United Kingdom	629
Rachael O'Connor and Amy Lawton
32.1. Value creation and (individual/corporate) income taxation	629
32.1.1. Concept of “value”	629
32.1.1.1. References to value in income tax law	629
32.1.1.2. Definition of “value”	630
32.1.1.3. Different uses of “value”	630
32.1.1.4. “Value” and the structure of income taxation	630
32.1.1.4.1. Income tax	631
32.1.1.4.2. Capital gains tax	631
32.1.1.4.3. Corporation tax	632
32.1.2. Concept of “asset”	632
32.1.2.1. References to “asset” in income tax law	632
32.1.2.2. The recognition of an “asset” for income tax purposes	633
32.1.2.3. “Asset” function and income tax law	634
32.1.2.4. Data, market share, customer base and AI as “assets” under income tax law	634
32.1.2.5. Patents, know-how, trademarks, licences and goodwill as “assets” under income tax law	635
32.1.3. Value “creation”	637
32.1.3.1. Grown versus manufactured tangible assets	637
32.1.3.2. The nature of intangible assets and “value creation”	638
32.1.3.3. Data as an asset under income tax law	639
32.1.4. Value creation/Income attribution	640
32.1.4.1. The attribution of assets and income to taxable persons	640
32.1.4.2. The attribution of one asset to multiple taxpayers under income tax law	641
32.1.4.3. AI as a taxable person	641
32.1.5. Value changes	642
32.1.5.1. A change in function or location of an asset	642
32.1.5.2. A change in value and connected activities by identifiable persons (or lack thereof)	643
32.1.6. Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	644
32.1.7. Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	647
32.1.7.1. “Value creation” and taxation of non-residents	647
32.1.7.1.1. Income tax	647
32.1.7.1.2. CGT	647

32.1.7.1.3. Corporation tax	648
32.1.7.1.4. Non-resident landlords	649
32.1.7.1.5. UK land	649
32.1.7.1.6. Intangibles	650
32.1.7.2. “Value creation” and taxation of foreign income	651
32.1.7.2.1. Individuals	651
32.1.7.2.2. Companies	652
32.1.7.2.3. Foreign PEs	653
32.1.7.3. “Source rules” for inbound and outbound situations	653
32.1.8. Transfer pricing and value creation	654
32.1.8.1. UK approach to transfer pricing	654
32.1.8.2. The 2017 OECD TPG	655
32.1.8.3. The 2017 OECD guidance on functional risk analysis	655
32.1.8.4. Chapter VI of the 2017 OECD TPG: Intangibles	656
32.1.8.5. DEMPE approach	656
32.1.8.6. Residual profits	657
32.1.8.7. “Value creation” and transfer pricing cases	657
32.2. Digitalization of businesses and value creation: Recent changes to UK tax legislation	657
32.2.1. Recent changes through adoption of new taxes	657
32.2.1.1. Digital services tax	657
32.2.1.2. Diverted profits tax (DPT)	661
32.2.2. Tax developments and “value creation”	664
32.2.2.1. DST	664
32.2.2.2. DPT	665
32.2.2.3. Other taxes	666
32.2.3. Aligning international taxation and value creation	666
Chapter 33: United States	669
Shu-Yi Oei
33.1. Value creation and (individual/corporate) income taxation	669
33.1.1. Concept of “value”	669
33.1.2. Concept of “asset”	671
33.1.3. Value “creation”: Determination of asset value upon creation and subsequent use - Approaches to different types of assets	673
33.1.4. Value creation/Income attribution	675
33.1.5. Value changes	676

Table of Contents

33.1.6.	Value recognition in case of non-market transactions	678
33.1.7.	Importance of value creation in cross-border situations	678
33.1.8.	Transfer pricing and value creation	681
33.2.	Digitalization of businesses and value creation:
	Impact on domestic tax legislation	686
33.2.1.	Recent changes to national tax legislation	686
33.2.2.	The perceived need to align international taxation and value creation	687
	Part Four
	Appendix
Appendix:	Questionnaire for National Reports	693