

A Small State's Guide to Influence in World Politics

TOM LONG

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
1. Introduction	1
Who are you calling small?	5
Small states in history	6
Material views	9
Ideational views	11
Relational views	13
Organization and conclusions	15
2. Small States, Big World	17
Small states in International Relations theory	17
Setting the scene: Asymmetrical theory and international context	22
Great-power politics	23
Institutionalization	29
Economic governance	32
Normative environment	35
Structures, relations, and small states today	37
3. Opportunities and Constraints: Conditions for Success	39
Small-state characteristics and relationships	41
Internal factors	43
External factors	45
Asymmetrical international relationships	46
Typological theory and the conditions for relational influence	49
Bilateral asymmetrical relationships and international context	57
4. Playing Small Ball: Strategies for Success	60
Small states' sources of power	60
Particular-intrinsic	62
Derivative	63
Collective	64
Cases and strategies	66
Type 1 (red): Patience and perseverance	68
Type 2 (orange): Problem redefinition	69
Type 3 (yellow): Agenda setting for salience	70
Type 4 (green): Finding mutual benefits	71

vi CONTENTS

Type 5 (blue): Extraversion	73
Type 6 (violet): Agenda setting and new alternatives	75
Types 7 (white) and 8 (grey): Maintaining the status quo	76
Applying the theory: Case selection and methods	77
Case selection and methods	77
5. Small-State Security	80
Africa: Asymmetry and security diversification	81
Success: Djibouti finds new partners	81
Failure: Gabon deepens dependence	84
Americas: Bases and bargains	88
Success: El Salvador gains benefits and action space	89
Failure: Honduras's declining benefits at a higher cost	92
Asia: Managing change in the Himalayas	94
Success: Bhutan benefits from alignment	95
Failure: Nepal—Arms, embargos, and asymmetry	99
Europe: Autonomy at geopolitical crossroads	102
Success: Estonia between Russia and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization	103
Failure: Moldova between Russia and Europe	106
Conclusions	110
6. Small States in a Global Economy	112
Africa	113
Success: Rwandan aid and autonomy	114
Failure: Aid and policy dependency in Zambia	118
Americas	121
Success: Bolivia, Brazil, and gas	122
Failure: Paraguay, Brazil, and Itaipú	126
Asia	129
Success: Malaysia and the Belt and Road Initiative	130
Failure: Myanmar and the Belt and Road Initiative	132
Europe	135
Success: Portugal leans into the euro crisis	136
Failure: The eurozone's Greek tragedy	139
Conclusions	143
7. Institutions, Law, and Norms	144
Case 1: Climate and environment	145
Case 2: Human rights	151
Case 3: Regional organizations	157
Case 4: Global public health	163
Conclusions	168

8. Conclusion	170
Comparing types and cases	171
Comparing issue areas	175
Policy applications	178
Findings and implications	179
Appendix	183
Bibliography	185
Index	223