

Digital transformation and crafts:
How is the profession of the carpenter changing due to modern joinery robots?

Wolfgang Schwarzmann
FS180203

Doctoral Thesis

to obtain the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Architecture and Planning

University of Liechtenstein

Doctoral degree programme in Architecture and Planning

Supervisor: Prof. Dipl. Arch. ETH Urs Meister,
University of Liechtenstein, Liechtenstein

Co-Supervisor: Prof. Dr. Sascha Friesike,
Director of the Weizenbaum Institute for the Networked Society, Berlin
Professor at Berlin University of the Arts, Berlin

Working Period: 1 September 2018 – 19 October 2022

Date of Submission: 19. October 2022

Table of Contents

1	Craft in a Process of Change.....	12
1.1	Carpenters and the Digital Revolution	12
1.1.1	What influences a carpenter? 4 Observations	14
1.1.2	Might Technology solve the problem?	17
1.2	What is ‘digitisation’ in the craft of carpentry?.....	24
1.2.1	Moment of translation; from analogue to digital.....	24
1.2.2	Before this translation; How did carpenters work until now?.	26
1.2.3	When was ‘the break’ in the traditional craft of carpenters?..	29
1.2.4	In translation; How do carpenters work today?	30
1.2.5	The joinery robot; Established parts in a new combination ...	37
1.2.6	Reflecting on a somewhat misguided image of the future:.....	47
1.2.7	Is the profession of carpentry more fragmented today than it was in the past?.....	53
1.3	Is that still ‘craft’ at all?.....	55
1.3.1	‘Craft’ as a flexible concept illustrated by the example of the planing machine.....	55
1.3.2	The changing craft of joining wood	58
1.3.3	The ability of combining knowledge and skills;.....	59
1.4	The craftsmen and their machinery	65
1.4.1	Human or machine? Hybrid craft as a unity!.....	69
1.4.2	Expanding human capabilities.....	71
1.4.3	Approaching new technologies.....	73
2	Paper I.; How new technologies can promote the reintroduction of traditional knowledge in the profession of a carpenter	82
3	Paper II.; Traditional Knowledge on Modern Milling Robots.....	90

4	Paper III.; The Renaissance of Structural Ornamentation	99
5	Paper IV.; What a carpenter can learn from 'Thingiverse'.....	129
	References.....	138
	List of Figures.....	144
	Curriculum Vitae.....	146
	Declaration of Authorship	147