The Cultural Dimension of Global Business

Ninth Edition

Gary P. Ferraro and
Elizabeth K. Briody

Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group
LONDON AND NEW YORK

Contents

List of Figures xii
List of Photos xiii
List of Tables xvi
Preface xvii
Acknowledgments xxii

1 Cultural anthropology and global business 1
Global business: connections and disruptions 1
The perspective of cultural anthropology 3
Cultural anthropology and the business sector 6
Business anthropology 6
The value of taking culture into account 9
Anthropology's major concept: culture 10
Culture as process 10
Culture is learned 12
Culture influences biological processes 14
Cultural universals exist 16
Economic systems 16
Kinship systems 16
Educational systems 18
Social control systems 18
Supernatural belief systems 19
Cultural change 19
People from all cultures are ethnocentric 22
Cultures are integrated wholes 23
Cultural differences in business: challenges and opportunities 24
Cross-cultural scenarios 26

2 Applying lenses to understand culture 28
Cultural themes 29
Characterization 29
Reach 30

Transformation 31
Relative stability 31
Metaphors 32
Value alignment 33
Organizational status 35
Drawings 36
A method 36
Roles 36
Change 38
Unforeseen change 38
Cyclical change 40
Context 42
National culture differences 42
Organizational culture differences 43
Contrasting values 43
The individual–collective dimension 47
How individualism–collectivism plays out in individual-oriented cultures 47
How individualism–collectivism plays out in collective-oriented cultures 48
Implications for business 49
The equality–hierarchy dimension 51
How equality–hierarchy plays out in egalitarian cultures 51
How equality–hierarchy plays out in hierarchical cultures 52
Implications for business 52
The change orientation dimension 54
How orientations to change play out in change-embracing cultures 55
How orientations to change play out in change-fearing cultures 55
Implications for business 56
The time orientation dimension 56
Precise versus loose reckoning of time 56
Sequential versus synchronized time 58
How time orientation plays out 59
In precise/sequential-oriented cultures 59
In loose/synchronized-oriented cultures 59
Past, present, and future orientations 59
How time orientation plays out 60
In past-oriented cultures 60
In present-oriented cultures 61
In future-oriented cultures 61
The busyness factor 61
How time orientation plays out in busy cultures 63
Implications for business 63
Conclusion 64
Cross-cultural scenarios 64

3 Communicating nonverbally across cultures 66
The nature of nonverbal communication 67
Types of nonverbal communication 68
Potential pitfalls in studying nonverbal communication 69
Business introductions 70
Business card exchange 71
Bowing 71
Gift giving 72
Interactions among businesspeople 74
Body posture 74
Gaze 75
Hand gestures 76
Facial expressions 78
Dress 81
Proxemics 82
Personal space 83
Public space and work 84
Visual media 86
Conclusion 89
Cross-cultural scenarios 90

4 Communicating across cultures using language 92
The ideal of linguistic proficiency in global business 92
Defining language 92
Communicate more, misunderstand less, partner better 93
Cultural competence is essential too! 93
Need a reason to learn a foreign language? 95
English language skills are not always, or routinely, sufficient 95
Language skills enable relationship and partnership building 95
Few possess both language and specific technical skills 95
While helpful, interpreters have limits 96
Knowing more than one language improves contextual understanding 96
Linguistic diversity 98
Spoken languages worldwide 98
"What do they speak there?" 99
When the assumptions turn out wrong 100
Learning from firsthand experience 101
Revisiting and revising our assumptions 102
Language and culture 102
The influence of culture on language 103
Culture and business 103
Culture and sports 104
Culture and language preservation 105
Language and social context 106
Taking relationship specifics into account 106
Translation issues can lead to miscommunication 107

Additional complicating factors 111
Slang 111
Euphemisms 112
Conversational taboos 113
Accents 113
Humor 114
Information and communication technologies 115
Email 116
Text messages 116
Conclusion 118
Cross-cultural scenarios 119

5 Negotiating across cultures 120
What is negotiation? 121
The negotiation process 122
The nature of cross-cultural negotiation 124
Where to negotiate 125
Effective strategies for international negotiators 126
Avoid cultural cluelessness 126
Prepare carefully 128
Concentrate on long-term relationships, not short-term contracts 129
Focus on the interests behind the positions 132
Avoid overreliance on cultural generalizations 134
Be sensitive to timing 135
Consider silence as a source of help 136
Remain flexible 137
Learn to listen, not just speak 139
Act ethically and with integrity 142
The use of interpreters 145
Prior to the negotiations 146
During the negotiations: communicating with your interpreter 147
During the negotiations: communicating with your counterpart 147
After the negotiations 147
Conclusion 147
Cross-cultural scenarios 148

6 Understanding organizational culture 150
What is organizational culture? 150
Organizations as a culture 151
Describing an organizational culture 152
Explaining "What's going on?" 154
Meetings as opportunities for collaboration and problem solving 155
Meetings and national culture differences 156
Meetings and organizational culture differences 158
Lessons drawn from meetings 160

Decision-making models to advance the work 161
Decision making and cultural differences 162
Decision making and organizational culture differences 163
Majority preferred at Small Car Group 163
100 percent consensus at Saturn 163
Leadership driven at Opel 164
Individual empowerment at GM Truck Group 164
Collaboration at GM do Brasil 164
Single voice of authority at Isuzu 165
The impact of decision-making differences 165
Lessons drawn from decision-making models 166
Governing in a Chinese family business 167
A tea restaurant in Hong Kong 168
Lessons about kinship and business 170
"Silos" symbolizing the lack of integration 171
Perceptions by the acquired firms 172
Solutions for breaking down silos 174
Conclusion 175
Cross-cultural scenarios 176

7 Partnering across cultures 178
Partnership basics 178
Partnering relationships and problem solving 179
Partnering with on-site work colleagues 181
Lack of shared knowledge of "how we work around here" 181
Case 1: An inability to hear the issue and problem solve together 181
Case 2: A confidence turns into a betrayal 182
Building integration 183
Case 3: Making the decision to engage with other stakeholders 183
Case 4: Involving the entire team in applied research tasks 183
Case 5: Addressing issues of status and power among migrating healthcare workers 184
Lessons from the cases 185
The experience of global virtual partnerships 187
Distinctions between local and global partnerships 187
Global virtual partnerships 189
Partnership life cycle 192
Initiation stage 192
Start-up stage 192
Growth stage 194
Mature stage 194
Transition 194
Partnership process outcomes 194
Partnership product outcomes 195
Conclusion 200
Cross-cultural scenarios 201

8 Transforming business culture 203
Definition of cultural transformation 203
Change unfolding 204
Developing and implementing a plan for change 205
Data gathering 206
Comparing the plan with the stated cultural ideals 207
Analyzing the reactions to change 207
Moving forward 209
Critical attributes of planned cultural transformation 209
Core idea 210
Concept of culture 210
Time-based process 211
Business approach to change 211
Core theme 212
Culture understood 212
Three-stage process models 213
Multi-stage process models 214
Summary 215
Anthropological approach to change 216
Mechanisms of change 216
Invention 216
Cultural loss 216
Diffusion 217
Acculturation 217
Acculturation often underlies organizational-culture change 217
Where are all the anthropologists? 218
Similarities to an anthropological approach 218
Crises often force change: a manufacturing case study 220
Process and problem solving as core ideas 221
Summary 223
Applying the planned cultural transformation process to health care 223
Process 223
Assessment of process 225
Conclusion 228
Cross-cultural scenarios 228

9 Exploring consumers and users 230
Consumer or customer? Oh, and what's a user? 230
An anthropological approach to understanding consumers and users 231
Methodology in consumer research 232
Methodology in design research 233
Interface between business organizations and consumers 237
The gold star question 237
Difficulty keeping pace with market complexity 239
Design district 239
Macy's department store 239
At home with consumers 240

Product development challenges 240
Summary 241
Understanding products holistically 242
Coffee with an anthropological twist 242
Fine chocolate without the guilt 244
Collaborative approaches in understanding users 245
A day in the life … and a sportswear opportunity revealed 245
A breath of fresh air … brought inside 247
Brand meaning and advertising 249
Inspirational characters with compelling stories 250
Know thy consumers' culture 251
When values are at odds 253
The story unfolds 253
Intervention options 254
Conclusion 256
Cross-cultural scenarios 257

10 Acting and managing globally 259
Globally oriented firms 260
Recruiting and hiring 261
Supporting diverse work teams 262
Valuing international assignments 263
Business trip 263
"Frequent flyer" assignments 264
Commuter assignments 264
Rotational assignments 265
Short-term assignments 265
Long-term assignments 265
International transfers 268
Building global leadership competencies 269
Broad perspective 269
Appreciation of alternative viewpoints 269
Case 1: A reflection on a broad perspective and alternative viewpoints 269
Balancing contradictions 271
Emotional resilience 271
Case 2: A reflection on balancing contradictions and resilience 271
Case 3: A reflection on global leadership competencies 272
Reimagining global strategy 276
Conclusion 277
Cross-cultural scenarios 278

Appendix: Cross-cultural scenario discussions 280
Glossary 286
References 297
Index 312